

You'd Think Our
Officials Foreigners
From Way They Talk

The Federal Trade Commission which is always absurd and frequently annoying, until a court slaps down, produced a gem yesterday.

It ruled that the Book-of-the-Month club was guilty of "false and misleading advertising" in describing as "free" the books which it gives occasionally to its members.

Commission Chairman James C. Mead, speaking for the three-member majority, said the word "free" was false advertising because under the club's plan you don't actually get a "free" book unless you buy four other books during the year.

But there was a minority report also — and it was bitter and true. The dissenting commissioner, Lowell B. Mason, said the FTC brought in "deadbeats" to bolster its case against the book club, and threw out the window Webster's definition of the word "free."

Yes, and, but, of course — either book is paid for or it's free. I know because I am a Book-of-the-Month club member. If these extra books that come through to you aren't free I don't know any — and if anyone says this editor doesn't know the meaning of words better than the run of Washington bureaucrats then I'll say something the jerk can sue me for.

There is an absolute definition of basic words that not even a high Federal Trade Commission member can change. One such word is "free."

The Book-of-the-Month club offers under certain conditions an extra volume for which its members do not pay. The members understand it. The book is literally free. How come the government sticking its nose into this business? I can well believe the words of Commissioner Mason's dissent: That the government went out and drummed up its case with some members of the club who had failed to pay their bills. The result is a case which sounds like something a Philadelphia lawyer hounded — distorting the word "free" by coupling it with the club's rule that you have to buy a minimum of four books a year.

But the book-of-the-Month club didn't say all its books are "free" — and the fact that it expects members to pay for some of 'em is probably the reason why we get this absurd ruling from the Federal Trade Commission.

The court the book club has taken the case into federal court, and of course the courts will eventually straighten out our illiterate bureaucrats who presume to parse the King's English for booksellers.

McLendon Suspends
Liberty Broadcasts

Dallas, May 16 (AP) — Gordon McLendon, the youthful Texan who built a fabulous radio empire by bucking the laws of baseball to bring major league broadcasts to the hinterlands, gave it up today — at least until "the courts grant me relief."

The man who first had to get his play-by-play reports of major league games by listening to a New York radio station then send them to Dallas via teletype, announced that his Liberty Broadcasting System, which grew to 458 stations, was suspending operations.

He charged that the major and minor leagues entered a conspiracy to deprive him of his rights to broadcast and said the Justice Department hasn't got the "guts" to fight baseball's violation of the law.

McLendon started his Major League broadcasts in 1948 at the age of 27, doing the announcing himself and calling himself "The Old Scotchman." He bucked a baseball law — that which prohibited broadcasting games at any time of day or night within an area of 50 miles of a minor league club's home base without the owner's consent. The Justice Department eventually ruled that the 50-mile rule was illegal.

Both trucks were damaged.

House Tight on Everything But Own Money

Washington, May 16 (AP) — In a complete reversal of previous demands for belt-tightening economy, the House has voted substantial tax relief for itself and senators and free home town office space for congressmen.

The measure swept through the House yesterday as it passed the last of the annual domestic budget measures, a bill appropriating funds to operate Congress.

On all previous budget bills except one financing local river and harbor and flood control projects, the House had reduced allotments recommended by its appropriations Committee. Demands for economy accompanied all the reductions.

The congressional budget bill cleared by voice vote and went to the Senate with the distinction of being the first bill this year on which the House actually raised the allotments recommended by the Appropriations Committee.

The bill's total of $62,391,780 was $1,500 more than the committee had suggested, although about 10 million below Budget Bureau recommendations. The money finances Congress, the Library of Congress, the Government Printing Office and related arms of the legislative department.

The $1,500 increase was for installation of more traffic signs and signals on Capitol Hill.

But two other amendments, for tax relief and free office rental, could run the added cost of the bill into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The tax amendment was offered by Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts and approved without a show of opposition or dissent. The bill's Democratic and Republican managers announced willingness to accept it and the other members went along.

An examination of the amendment by newsmen disclosed its intent, which McCormack verified.

CIO Steel Men
Ready to Talk;
Oil Strike Off

Philadelphia, May 16 (AP) — Steelworkers union chief Philip Murray said today he is willing to renew labor peace talks with the steel industry, but stressed he's still standing pat on his demands.

Murray told reporters at the union's big convention that it would be up to the industry to initiate new negotiations, and that he was always ready to accept a bid.

Murray made it clear in his remarks to the convention that he was unwilling to retreat from the eventual 28-cents an hour "package," plus union shop, recommendations of the government's Wage Stabilization Board. The industry has balked at the WSB proposals.

Washington, May 16 (AP) — The simmering oil strike started to cool off today.

Government officials saying what one of them called a "pretty critical" shortage of aviation gas, set up 15 bargaining sessions between union and oil company negotiators across the country.

O. A. Knight, leader of a coalition of unions which have been on strike for 16 days, said in an interview that "we have called off the strike" and most strikers should be back on the job soon.

Before that could happen, the 22 unions and 90,000 strikers involved would have to sign hundreds of local bargaining agreements with more than 70 oil companies.

Some tentative agreements, worked out on the basis of a wage stabilization formula, were being reported last night. Others were being awaited today.

Some of the agreements involved 1,400 workers at the Standard Oil of Indiana plant in Sugar Creek, Mo., and 400 workers at Globe Refining Company's Lemont Ill. facility.

More Beef by 1955 Assured
Americans

Washington, May 16 (AP) — If all goes well, Americans will have nearly a third more beef by 1955.

Consumers rate an average of 62.7 pounds of beef and veal last year. The Agriculture Department says that in three years the average should be around 81 pounds.

The department explains that cattle production has for years moved up and down in what it calls "cattle cycles." The nation is now in the midst of a cycle upswing.

These cycles are influenced by such things as prices, supplies of livestock feed, condition of pastures and consumer demand.

There have been three such cycles during the past 25 years. The first began in 1927, with cattle numbers starting an upswing under influence of a general improvement in economic conditions. It reached a peak in 1934. Low farm prices and a drought which ruined many pastures brought an end to the expansion.

After dropping off, cattle numbers started a new upswing in 1938. Improved farm prices, coupled with an increase in feed supplies, encouraged a new expansion. It was spurred to a record height by World War II. The downsizing in the cycle started in 1945. Tight feed supplies plus farmer complaints over price controls were given as factors.

Then came the war in Korea. Demand for meat increased. So did prices. A new cattle cycle was started. Farmers began increasing their herds again.

The department says that if the present cycle follows the pattern of past cycles it will reach its peak in 1955 with a record number of beef cattle on farms and a record number sent to market for slaughter.

The 1927-34 cycle started with 37 million head of cattle, climbed to 74, then dropped back to 65. The 1938-45 cycle started with 45 million head, increased to 85 but declined to 76 in 1949.

The present cycle started with 76 million and reached 99 the first of this year. The department says the number is expected to reach 92 million next year, 97 in 1954 and 100 in 1955 unless there are unforeseen developments.

What is likely to happen after 1955? The department does not look beyond that date—at least for publication. Some of its experts do say, however, it is a question whether the nation could feed many more than 100 million cattle without considerable improvement in range and pasture practices.

Do Leaders of Tomorrow Have a Quality of Rebellion or Should They Be Working?

By Hal Boyle
New York, May 16 (AP) — The nation-wide rash of raids by college boys on co-ed dormitories strikes a cheerful note in a mad and angry world.

Others may cavil at this antic but they restore my faith in youth and higher education. They show that the young of our land still have the quality of mild rebellion against the influence of spring and a full moon.

Most of these mass raids have been in quest of co-ed bras and panties, and some of the bluenosed jerks will surely see this as a new sign of moral decadence and ask suspiciously:

"What do the boys want with those things anyway?" The answer to this is simple and practical. Soaked in cold water and tied around a throbbing head, these garments will help many a fellow bone up for his final exams. They beat a towel all hollow.

There is historical precedent for this. In the days of chivalry the knight always rode off to battle carrying a token — usually a pair of drawers.

Russian 'Slicker'
Nabbed Reds Say

Moscow, May 16 (AP) — Russia's slickest embezzler has been caught and sent to a labor camp. And his careless victims have been punished, too.

The notorious sharpie, one Timofeev, would work his way into a responsible position with a construction organization or other work group and make off with the cash box. Then he would show faked papers to get another job and steal another cash box.

His exploits over several years netted him 150,000 rubles at the official rate of $37,500 and set off a nation-wide manhunt. Pravda printed his picture and also pictures of executives who had been robbed because they had been careless in checking Timofeev's records.

The publicity was Timofeev's undoing. He was captured and sentenced to 25 years on a work gang. Pravda today said he will lose all rights as a citizen for five additional years and his property has been confiscated.

The executives who were taken by him have been handed letters "warning" and "admonishing" them.

Eisenhower Is Favored in Oregon Vote

Portland, Ore., May 16 (AP) Oregon voters stepped up today to tell their choice for President in a primary affording the first Western test of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's popularity.

Election officials predicted — a record 60 per cent turnout — or better than 450,000 of the 778,000 voters. Sunny weather was forecast throughout the day. Polling hours are 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. PDT — and counting the extra-long ballot will be a slow job.

Eisenhower rates tops to carry off the Republican preferential vote. As the lone campaigner on his party's ticket, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee appeared certain to get the 12 Democratic delegates.

Whether Eisenhower wins 10 or all 18 Republican delegates depends on the vote for eight unpledged delegates widely accepted to favor Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft did not enter the primary. All other delegates signed a statement to support the high-polling presidential candidate.

Some Taft followers sponsored an appeal for write-ins for the Ohio senator. They have been careful, however, not to make too much of it. Even so, "the gesture" vote looked like the closest challenge to Gov. Earl Warren of California for second place.

Of the other GOP entries, ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota waged only a brief campaign. Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon both made it plain that they do not consider themselves as candidates — in fact, Morse is running as an Eisenhower delegate. William R. Schneider, St. Louis attorney, does not figure at all.

When the tallies start rolling in tonight, they also will show the relative popularity of Sen. Kefauver in the Far West's first primary — as against two prominent Democrats who refused to campaign. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois were entered against their wishes.

The appearance of the eight unpledged GOP delegate-candidates provided the only clash of any consequence in the active but otherwise even-tempered campaign.

Eisenhower people charged an underdog move for Taft. The eight candidates denied it but three signified that if elected they would support Taft, the others have refused to commit themselves.

The Eisenhower strategists set up their own slate at 10 at-large delegates to counter the possible split. But there is no way for the voter to tell on the ballot which of the candidates filed by petition — or by the usual winner-take-all system. There are 80 at-large candidates on the GOP ticket.

As for this flurry, standing for Eisenhower and Warren, Taft and Stassen devoted their appeal for votes to criticism of the present administration and expounding their respective views.

Kefauver did a lot of hand-shaking, once traded his coonskin cap for an Indian head dress and delivered a few pokes at the Truman regime. But he agreed generally with Democratic policies.

Child Strangled
by Mother Who Ends Own Life

A 43-year-old mother strangled her 12-year-old daughter to death near Blevins late Thursday and then committed suicide by taking poison, Hempstead County Coroner Rufus Herndon Jr. said today.

The bodies of Mrs. Cien Wood and her daughter, Linda Jo, were found in a bedroom by the husband and father, Floyd Wood, when he returned to the house from work in the fields.

The coroner said Mrs. Wood used a bolt from a dress to strangle her daughter, put her on the bed, then took carbolic acid and died beside the child. There was no sign of struggle, investigators said.

Several notes were left by the woman but the coroner refused to reveal their contents. He said the notes were identified by Wood as having been written by his wife. They partially explained the motive for the incident.

Just how long the incident occurred before the bodies were discovered could not be determined but investigators believed it happened shortly after Mr. Wood left for the fields that morning. Discovery was made after 1 p.m. Officers also discovered the poison was purchased in a Prescott drug store several days ago by Mrs. Wood.

Neighbors indicated the young girl had been sick for a few days but her illness was not considered serious. She was the only child.

Coroner Herndon said no inquest would be held in the deaths. The bodies were taken to a Prescott Funeral Home and burial was scheduled for early Friday afternoon.

Assisting in the investigation were Coroner Cornish of Novada County and Deputy Sheriff Allen Shipp of Hempstead. The Wood home is near the Hempstead-Novada County line.

Editor Assails
Many Points of UN Treaties

Hot Springs, May 16 (AP) A Pulitzer prize-winning editor said today Americans may lose their constitutional guarantees if the United States adopts certain treaties proposed by the United Nations.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Arkansas Bar Association, Editor William H. Fitzpatrick of the New Orleans States declared:

"We are asked to limit, extend and restrict historic rights simply to meet upon a command ground of agreement with other nations whose people do not understand in some cases desire the freedom of which we are the inheritors."

Fitzpatrick spoke on "Government by Treaty," which also was the general subject of a series of editorials which won him a Pulitzer prize in 1951.

He said "there are a number of dangerous treaties which have been proposed by the United Nations — dangerous, in his view, because the principles they outline fall short of American beliefs and constitutional guarantees on the subjects and because they offer inadequate protection for citizens in this country."

Bar Group Airs Cost of Legal Service

Hot Springs, May 16 (AP) — The Arkansas Bar Association today called for legal service to any person needing it at a cost no greater than that of a meal.

President Terrill Marshall of the association said the association's 40th annual convention at Hot Springs, Ark., is a time when the needs of the indigent for expert legal assistance are met. He said the association's plan is to have a "meal" for each person needing legal assistance, and that the cost of the meal will be the cost of the legal service.

Marshall said that an organized legal aid program is a minimum and should be considered a "must."

An association committee yesterday urged extension of an organized legal aid program in Arkansas, which operates only in Pulaski and Washington counties, and today Marshall declared "we must follow the committee report by action."

Marshall also recommended a study of the possibility of the Bar Association endorsing candidates for judgeships, at least for the Supreme Court.

The association yesterday approved a proposal that claims against the state be settled in court rather than by the 3-man state claims commission. A bill to effect such change will be sponsored in the 1953 legislature.

The largest crowd of the day lined out to hear speeches by representatives of five candidates for presidential nominations.

Herbert K. Hyde of Oklahoma City represented Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, candidate for the Republican nomination. Democrats represented and their spokesmen were: Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Three others were injured seriously. They were William Britton, 24, and Raymond Malham, 28, both of Brinkley, and James Simmons of Memphis.

A 32-year-old Memphis negro, Jesse Hill, was killed yesterday when his truck collided with a parked truck on Highway 70, one mile east of Brinkley.

Hennrich County Coroner Rufus Herndon said Mrs. Cleo Wood, 43, of near Prescott, Ark., strangled her 12-year-old daughter Linda Jo, and then committed suicide.

Teachers to Go Along on Ford Plan

Cohnewy, May 16 (AP) — Arkansas State Teachers College says it will go along with the controversial program to alter teacher education in Arkansas, but it attacked the string of majority participation to its approval.

Dr. Nelson M. Irby, president of ASTC, said yesterday that the school would take part in the Ford Foundation's plan provided all other state colleges accept it. ASTC became the first state school to approve the program.

Hendrix and Quenchilla both privately withdrew approval earlier. Irby, the Ford plan would require a prospective teacher to serve a year's internship in addition to studying four years at college.

Marine Corps the Goat Says Rep. Vinson

Washington, May 16 (AP) — Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) declared today that the Army, Navy and Air Force oppose increasing the strength of the Marine Corps because they fear it would cause a reduction in their own appropriations.

Vinson, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, led off House debate on legislation which would not only establish a minimum number of Marines but make their commandant a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

As the bill passed the Senate, and was approved by the House, Vinson said the Marines would be maintained at not less than four combat divisions and four combat-strength Marine air wings. The House committee stipulated that a personnel minimum of 300,000 be established to keep the units up to strength.

Vinson announced, however, that in the interest of economy he will offer an amendment to make the minimum strength three combat divisions plus three full-strength air wings and supporting units.

Supporters of the legislation count on this concession to attract wavering members.

Vinson said Pentagon brass in general strongly opposes the legislation. But he said he thought it time the lawmakers made it clear that Congress has not abdicated its constitutional obligation to determine the size and composition of our armed forces.

In a prepared speech, Vinson scoffed at arguments that the Marines should be some percentage of the navy in strength, and that an enlarged corps of Leathernecks would duplicate and compete with the Army and Air Force.

"The Army, the Navy and the Air Force are afraid that if the Congress maintains a large Marine Corps, this will hurt their budgets in the future," he said. "We might just as well be blunt about it. That is all that this argument amounts to."

Vinson said maintaining the Marine Corps as a strong ready force with a powerful punch could:

1. Prevent the growth of large wars by prompt and vigorous action during their earliest stages.
2. Stay the progress of a full-scale aggression long enough for the nation to mobilize its defensive might.

sets up a second land army." He quoted the late Adm. Forrest C. Sherman, chief of naval operations, as estimating that the proposed four-division base would cost an additional four billion dollars a year.

Funds are now programmed in the fiscal 1953 budget, starting July 1, for almost three full-strength combat divisions, three full-strength air wings and support units.

DOROTHY DIX

Deserted Wife

Dear Miss Dix: I was married at 16, had my first child at 17, followed by one almost every year until I was expecting my sixth at 25. Then my husband said he couldn't stand the responsibility any more, and left us. He went back to live with his mother in another state. I am now 29, the children are from 4 to 12. About a year ago I met a man two years younger than I. He seemed very understanding and mature. We got along very well, and soon were seeing each other four or five times a week.

He said he loved me, and I know I loved him. However, he wanted me to marry him and leave two children. He felt he couldn't accept their care. Naturally, I wouldn't think of deserting my family, for one thing there's no one but me to care for them. My friend said he would like to come to see me once or twice a week, but I feel if I continue seeing him I'll learn to care more.

Answer: You have certainly had a hard life, Tina, and it is greatly to your credit that you have done such a splendid job of caring for your large family. Added to your I hope, lead you to a better choice material worries, you haven't been very fortunate in meeting decent men. Your husband proved to be nothing but a contemptible coward, and his mother must be nearly as bad to let him stay away from his family he deserted.

New Beau No Improvement

Your present young man is no better. Knowing that he would never accept the obligations of a ready-made family, he won your trust and love only to treat you as shabbily as your husband did. I'm afraid your prospects for second marriage are not too good, anyway. Few men are willing to take the responsibility of so large a family.

With the two unfortunate experiences you've had, your future dealings with men should be very carefully handled. You are, apparently, an over-trusting soul, and to avoid further wound, you'll have to toughen up a bit. Your immediate happiness lies with your children. Bringing them up right is a full-time job and leaves little room for romance. Of course, they'll be grown while you are still a comparatively young woman; then, and a hard life, Tina, and it is greatly to your credit that you have done such a splendid job of caring for your large family. Added to your I hope, lead you to a better choice

Answer: You have certainly had a hard life, Tina, and it is greatly to your credit that you have done such a splendid job of caring for your large family. Added to your I hope, lead you to a better choice than you have made up to now.

By all means stop seeing your young man. He has no serious intentions toward you, and further dating will only end in more disaster for you. Try to get an objective view of your life. Profit by the mistakes you have made and work toward a happier, more wholesome future.

You could use some first-hand advice and I suggest you see your clergyman, or someone at the Family Service Association, whose address you will find in the telephone book of your nearest large city. Apparently you have no family, aside from the children, and to face the world and your many responsibilities with no one to help is a sorry state. There are, however, many counseling agencies who can lend a helping hand, and I urge you to make use of them.

Dear Miss Dix: I am an 18-year-old senior and go on dates frequently. My father believes I should get out of the car immediately upon arriving home, and go into the house. He says the neighbors will talk about me if I sit in the car too long. While I can partly see his point, I feel there's no harm in staying outside for ten or twenty minutes.

DISCOURAGED DAUGHTER

Answer: While gladly conceding that romance must have its moments, I must agree with your father that a parked car is not the best place for them. However, if Dad expects you to heed his advice, he must be ready to offer an alternative to the parked car. What's the matter with the family living room? Or inviting the young man in for a snack in the kitchen? Your family should co-operate with you to the extent of having some place available for you to entertain the boy.

Regrettable as it is, neighbors will talk — and not always kindly. It's best not to give them material for gossip, but conduct yourself in a manner above reproach.

Dear Miss Dix: I've met a very nice man whose wife died recently leaving him with a 14-month-old baby. He is 25, I am 16. I like him very much but he thinks there is too much difference in our ages for us to go out together.

MISS S.
Answer: Of course you're too young to go with a widower of 25. He needs a sensible, settled companion his own age, and you need boy friends much nearer 16.

Korean Ace Shot Down in Air Battle

U. S. Fifth Air Force, Korea, May 16 (AP) — The Air Force announced today that Col. Walker M. Mahurin, one of America's greatest fighter pilots, was shot down over Korea Tuesday.

The 32-year-old Sabre jet pilot who downed more than 25 planes in two years hasn't been heard from since he radioed:

"I've been hit by flak and I think I'm on fire."

The Air Force said it didn't know whether he parachuted.

Mahurin, from Fort Wayne, Ind., was pioneering the use of Sabre jet fighters in dive bombing. That was one of his jobs as a combat group commander of the Fourth Fighter Wing.

He was on his third mission of the day. He led Sabre dive bombing attacks on Communist airfields at Simjia across the Yalu River from Manchuria and on the rail network at Kuan, 85 miles to the southeast. He was hit over Kuan.

Mahurin shot down 21 planes in Europe and one in the Pacific in the second world war. He was credited with 31-2 planes shot down in Korea, one probably destroyed and one damaged.

Mahurin came to Korea five months ago and was originally under command of his close friend and World War II rival, Col. Francis Gabreski, top American ace still flying in combat.

Mahurin's wife and their children live at George Air Force Base in California. His mother, Mrs. Guy Mahurin, lives in Fort Wayne.

ROCKFELLER ILL

New York, May 16 (AP) — John Rockefeller Jr., 78, was in New York Hospital today.

The reason was not announced. But a hospital spokesman said "could be for a checkup."

The first Young Men's Christian Association was founded in London in 1844 by George Williams and a group of associates employed by drapery firm.

Looking A Bass In The Mouth By AL MCCLANE Fishing Editor

Ever since we scratched the former world record small mouth bass off the books, people have been steadily writing to tell us that the record should be a 14-pounder taken in Florida back in 1938.

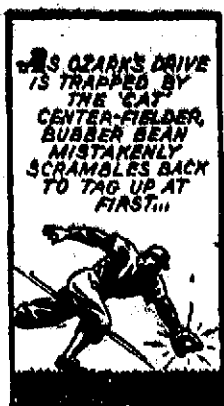

Well, two scientists got to looking in the bass' plumb line a few years ago and they convinced the angling world in general and Florida in particular that there are no smallmouths in the palm tree state. The truth of the matter is that Florida largemouth isn't even a true largemouth — but a distinct subspecies.
